This seminar serves as an effective architecture to facilitate your strategic retreat. Highly effective work teams are clear on how they align with the overall organizational strategy and have a reputation for getting the right things done on time, on budget, and on point.

Can you confidently say that your team has absolute clarity on its desired goals for the foreseeable future? Have you invested the time to deeply consider who you serve and what drives their behavior? What are the non-negotiable values within your team that in turn supports the mission, vision and values of the overall organization?

What conditions need to exist for your people to soar at serving your internal and external clients exceptionally well? How do you, as the senior leadership, enable greatness within your team? How do you know what drives value within your part of the organization — what do you measure to help monitor your team's success?
